

INFORMATION FOR PERSONS WHO WISH TO SEEK ASYLUM IN THE RUSSIAN FEDERATION

“Everyone has the right to seek and to enjoy in the other countries asylum from persecution”.

Article 14
Universal Declaration of Human Rights

I. Who is a refugee?

According to Article 1 of the Federal Law "On Refugees", a refugee is: "a person who, owing to well-founded fear of being persecuted for reasons of race, religion, nationality, membership of particular social group or political opinion, is outside the country of his nationality and is unable or, owing to such fear, is unwilling to avail himself of the protection of that country". If you consider yourself a refugee, you should apply for Refugee Status in the Russian Federation and obtain protection from the state.

If you consider that you may not meet the refugee definition or you have already been rejected for refugee status, but, nevertheless you can not return to your country of origin for humanitarian reasons, you have the right to submit an application for Temporary Asylum status, in accordance to the Article 12 of the Federal Law "On refugees". Humanitarian reasons may constitute the following: being subjected to tortures, arbitrary deprivation of life and freedom, and access to emergency medical assistance in case of dangerous disease/illness.

II. Who is responsible for determining Refugee status?

The responsibility for determining refugee status and providing legal protection as well as protection against forced return to the country of origin lies with the host state. Refugee status determination in the Russian Federation is conducted by the Federal Migration Service (FMS of Russia) through its territorial branches.

III. How to apply for Refugee status in the Russian Federation?

If you consider yourself a refugee, you should immediately approach the territorial branch of the FMS of Russia at the place of residence. If your freedom of movement is restricted and you cannot approach the FMS territorial branch in person, you have a right to launch your asylum application through the administration of the detention center and/or other center as well as launch your application via your legal representative. Once in the FMS of Russia office, you need to clearly state that you are applying for refugee status due to the fear of return to your country of origin. The FMS of Russia is obliged to accept your asylum application for preliminary review regardless of the type of stay in the Russian Federation, availability of identity documents and length of your stay in the Russian Federation.

If you do not speak Russian, you have the right to a professional interpreter to be provided by FMS of Russia for free.

Within 5 days after the preliminary review, the FMS of Russia will decide whether your asylum application will be accepted for processing. FMS of Russia territorial branch must issue to you a document confirming that you have expressed a wish to seek asylum.

The document will be valid for 5 days until the decision on preliminary review will be taken.

If your application was rejected for a full review, you would be issued a formal decision, which can be appealed in the court or in the higher administrative instance (federal level of the FMS of Russia).

If your application is accepted for consideration on merits, you would be interviewed in details on your reasons of fearing return, any documentary evidence, and route to reach Russia etc. Your fingerprints will be taken and you and your family members will be directed for the obligatory medical examination. All expenses for medical exams are to be covered by the state authorities.

You will also be issued an asylum-seeker certificate valid for three months – the time when the FMS of Russia is obliged to reach a decision in your case. The asylum-seeker certificate is an identity document and a proof of your legal stay in Russia. After getting the asylum-seeker's certificate you have the right to approach the insurance companies working under the OMI system (Obligatory Medical Insurance) and receive OMI certificate for the period your application is being considered. The OMI certificate gives you the right for free of charge medical assistance in local polyclinics. At the same time you need to conform to the rules of the country and obtain a migration record at the place of sojourn. If you do not comply with requirement of migration record, you may be subjected to administrative sanctions, e.g. fines.

During the time that your application is being assessed by the FMS of Russia, you are protected against a forced return to your country of origin. Any attempts to detain you, expel or deport you during this period is a serious violation of the human rights, and such threats of return should be immediately reported to the FMS of Russia office that has issued the asylum-seeker certificate, to the UNHCR and implementing partners.

FMS of Russia will reach a decision on your claim in 3 months after the application. In exceptional and rare cases, the processing period may be extended for another 3 months. In this case, the asylum-seeker certificate will be extended.

If at the end of the review process, the FMS of Russia decides that you meet the refugee criteria, you will be issued a Refugee Certificate. You can also obtain a Convention Travel Document upon your request in case you wish to travel abroad. Also you will have a right to apply for RF citizenship after one year of holding Refugee Status. Refugee Status gives you the right for obligatory medical insurance (please see the above-mentioned information).

The Refugee Status does not have time limitation but you are obliged to come every year and a half to the territorial branch of the FMS of Russia for the re-registration procedure.

If your application for refugee status was rejected by the FMS of Russia (you may be informed in person or by mail through a notification letter), you have the right to appeal the negative decision issued to you. You have a right to request the territorial branch of the FMS of Russia to issue you full-text of the negative decision in order to effectively appeal it. The negative decision may be appealed either to the court or the higher administrative body. During the appeal procedure your asylum-seeker's certificate will be extended, you will have to submit all relevant documentation to the FMS of Russia territorial branch to confirm the fact of appeal.

If your application for refugee status was rejected by the territorial branch of the FMS of Russia, and if you don't exercise the right to appeal, or if you completed the appeal procedure for the refugee status, you have the right to apply for Temporary Asylum. If you apply for Temporary Asylum just after the receipt of the negative decision on your application for Refugee status, your asylum-seeker's certificate will be extended.

If during any stage of the appeal process a decision is made in your favor, then your case will be returned to the FMS of Russia territorial branch for a second review of your claim.

The appeal should be lodged during the month after the receipt of the decision on rejection. If an appeal is not lodged within the set period and you don't appeal the negative decision of territorial branch of the FMS of Russia, or if you have exhausted the appeal procedure and received final decision on your application, you will be considered by the authorities of the Russian Federation as a person who is staying irregularly in the territory of the Russian Federation. Unless you have legalized your stay in Russian Federation in other ways, you may be subjected to administrative penalties, including fines, detention and deportation or expulsion.

IV. How to apply for Temporary Asylum in the Russian Federation?

If you consider that despite a rejection for Refugee Status you still can not return to your country of origin, you have the right to apply for Temporary Asylum (TA) in the Russian Federation. While applying for Temporary Asylum status, you need to clearly explain to the FMS of Russia what humanitarian grounds need to be considered when deciding. If your freedom of movement is restricted and you cannot approach the FMS territorial branch in person, you have a right to launch your asylum application through the administration of the detention center and/or other center as well as launch your application via your legal representative.

The application process entails an interview, filling in questionnaires, and obligatory medical examination. The decision on Temporary Asylum will be taken within 3 months after the application. You will be issued a certificate confirming the consideration of your application for Temporary Asylum status for the period of consideration of the application. If you apply for Temporary Asylum just after receiving rejection for refugee status the territorial branch of the FMS of Russia can extend your asylum-seeker's certificate.

If your application for Temporary asylum is accepted you will be issued a temporary asylum certificate. In case of application for Temporary Asylum immediately after rejection for Refugee Status, your asylum-seeker's certificate should be extended.

If your application for Temporary Asylum is accepted, you will be issued a Temporary Asylum certificate. The Temporary Asylum certificate gives you the right to receive OMI certificate. The Temporary Asylum status is valid for one year and all the attempts need to be made to obtain a more stable residential status (e.g. permission for temporary stay) with a longer validity date. In case you are granted permission for temporary stay, you have the right to retain TA status.

If your application for Temporary Asylum is rejected by the territorial branch of the FMS of Russia, you have the same right to appeal the negative decision in the court or higher administrative instance. In order to prepare a quality appeal to rejection, you need to request a motivated rejection decision, which describes the reasons of rejection.

The appeal should be lodged during the month after the receipt of the decision on rejection. If an appeal is not lodged within the set period and you don't appeal the negative decision of territorial branch of the FMS of Russia, or if you have exhausted the appeal procedure and received final decision on your application, you will be considered by the authorities of the Russian Federation as a person who is staying irregularly in the territory of the Russian Federation. Unless you have legalized your stay in Russian Federation in other ways, you may be subjected to administrative penalties, including fines, detention and deportation or expulsion.

Please note that in 2014 the RF authorities have introduced a special procedures on granting temporary asylum to citizens of Ukraine, more detailed information is available on we web portals of the FMS and its territorial bodies.

V. What are my rights and duties in the Russian Federation?

According to the Federal Law "On Refugees" you are entitled to certain rights and obliged to fulfill duties (as per article 6 for asylum-seekers, article 8, 10 for refugees and article 12 for holders of temporary asylum). Your rights include, in particular, the right to professional interpreter, emergency medical assistance. Recognized refugee and Temporary Asylum holders have a right for work without obtaining work permit, accomodation in the FMS of Russia temporary accomodation center is available for asylum-seekers, recognized refugees and temporary asylum holders (the rule on work permit and accomodation in temporary accomodation center does not apply to you if you are an asylum seeker waiting for the decision on temporary asylum).

Your children have the right to state primary education regardless of your status or registration on the territory of the Russian Federation.

Your main duty and obligation is to abide by the laws, rules and regulations of the Russian Federation.

More detailed information is available on www.fms.gov.ru, during the counseling with the FMS of Russia caseworker and in the office of the FMS of Russia or on the free hot-line phone number 8 800 333 00 16.

VI. What to do if I have been stopped or detained by the police?

If you are detained or stopped by the police do not sign any documents unless you understand the content.

Paying fine on the spot is considered a bribe and may imply criminal charges for both sides!

Ask the policeman to introduce himself including his title and present the ID. If possible, write down the name, rank and the details of the ID and police station. The duration of administrative detention should not exceed 3 hours, however, it may be extended up to 48 hours, if necessary to conduct identity determination or to verify circumstances of administrative offence. At the shortest possible time, the police has to inform close relatives and/or your lawyer or administration of your workplace. Try to make sure that the administrative protocol contains the details of the police station, policeman in charge of the case and the details of the offence to enable efficient appeal, if necessary.

In case of bribery and/or other illegal actions of the law-enforcement, report this to the nearest police station.

VII. What is the role of UNHCR in the Russian Federation?

The role of UNHCR in the Russian Federation remains to support the Russian authorities in the continuous development of its asylum legislation and practice to meet international standards. At the same time, UNHCR through its implementing legal partners assists asylum – seekers to get access to the national refugee status determination procedure in case they face problems.

UNHCR advocates for local integration for recognized refugees and persons granted Temporary Asylum status in the Russian Federation. UNHCR assists asylum-seekers and refugees to repatriate to the country of origin if they wish so and provided that the return will take place under safe and dignified conditions.

UNHCR services are FREE of charge:

There is no charge for any service provided by UNHCR and implementing legal partners. Any person or organization offering assistance to access UNHCR and implementing legal partners services for money or favors should be reported to UNHCR immediately.

Asylum – seekers approaching UNHCR and implementing legal partners are provided with general information on the national asylum procedure in the Russian Federation and are directed to a territorial branch of the Federal Migration Service to undergo the refugee status determination procedure. Applicants can get more information and qualified legal assistance during refugee status determination in the Russian Federation from implementing legal partners.

If you have been denied access to the national asylum procedure by the territorial branches of the Federal Migration Service you should report this to implementing legal partners immediately. Similarly, negative decisions on your refugee claim may be reported to implementing legal partners as soon as possible so that adequate and timely legal assistance can be provided. Remember, if you miss the deadline to appeal it can cause your expedited deportation from Russia.

VIII. If you think you do not have a nationality –what to do?

As part of its mandate, UNHCR aims at helping to reduce and prevent the incidence of statelessness and assisting stateless persons to exercise their rights, primarily, the right to nationality. If you consider yourself to be in situation of statelessness or find it difficult to define your nationality status, you should approach UNHCR or its implementing legal partner.
